NEW BOOKS FOR HOLIDAY GIFTS

FICTION

LAUGHING BILL HYDE By REX BEACH

It's the "Oh, I want this" kind of book—for Rex Beach gives us the adventure and the humor we need today. There's a touch of Alaska, a bit of business, some foot-racing fun, a flash of Oriental realism and a large amount of heart-warming human nature. Frontispiece. $1.35 net.

THE INNOCENTS By SINCLAIR LEWIS

A tender romance of an American Darby and Joan. An old couple try to run a tea-room but cannot meet the competition of their more artistic neighbor. Nothing can shake their belief in each other as they vainly seek for work and a home—but read the story itself. Frontispiece. $1.25 net.

THE STORY OF THE LITTLE ANGELS

By LAURA SPENCER PORTOR

An exquisite Christmas story for old and young, which will prove one of the most popular of holiday gift books. The Little Angels followed the older angels to Bethlehem and saw the Babe. Illustrated. 50 cents net.

THE STORY OF A COUNTRY TOWN By E. W. HOWE

New Illustrated Edition

A new edition of a story which for years has held its place as one of the classics that faithfully and imaginatively portray American rural life. Into this novel the author poured an abundance of that sane philosophy and satire which have made him one of the best-known journalists of the day. Illustrated. $1.50 net.

IMPORTANT BOOKS

EVERYMAN'S CHEMISTRY By ELLWOOD HENDRICK

A real chemistry book, giving a popular view of modern progress. The effects of the Great War and the necessity for chemical independence in this country are emphasized. Diagrams. $2.00 net.

HOW TO DEBATE By EDWIN DU BOIS SHURTER

Professor of Public Speaking, University of Texas

Here is a book prepared by a man who has had wide experience and who shares it with the reader. High-school and college students, lawyers and other professional men, members of debating societies—all these will find in it instruction for their needs. Post 8vo, $1.35 net.

THE VICTORIOUS FAITH By HORATIO W. DRESSER, Ph.D.

The author, well-known as a writer on practical spirituality, has struck a new and wider note in this book, in which he discusses moral ideals in wartime. The New York Evening Post says: "These discussions of vital subjects, in Mr. Dresser's illuminating style, are sure to demand and obtain wide attention." Post 8vo, $1.00 net.

GOD'S MEANING IN LIFE By SAMUEL McCOMB, D.D.

A message of hope, of good cheer, of optimism. Its motto is "What could we do without God?" Its cry is "All things are possible to the man who believes in God." This new book is a companion volume to "Prayer," "Faith," and "The New Life." 16mo, cloth, 75 cents net.

OBSERVATION: Every Man His Own University By RUSSELL H. CONWELL

How to achieve—these words might be the sub-title of this new book by the author of "Acres of Diamonds." How to achieve an education, a place in the world, happiness. Portrait. $1.00 net.

VERSE

RHYMES OF OUR HOME FOLKS

By JOHN D. WELLS

Songs of youth's loves and looking forward and old age's peace and looking backward, of country scenes, of patriotic sentiment, of humor and gentle pathos there rings the note of untainted Americanism. To enjoy Mr. Wells's verse one does not need to have made a critical study of modern verse. Illustrated. $1.25 net.

IN PRAISE OF WAR By DON C. SEITZ

A book of lively verses, some humorous, some gay, touching many phases of the war on land and at sea. The understanding of the self-sacrifice, the thrill inherited from generations of past warriors that seizes us when soldiers swing by—all these we feel again in Mr. Seitz's verse. Post 8vo, $1.00 net.

TO PLEASE THE SOLDIER SUPPLY HIS NEEDS FIRST

BOOKSELLERS AND LIBRARIANS: These works are issued to meet a great demand, no experiment about it, they are wanted right now and will find a very large market. If you want to display a real, warm interest in the "boys" show them these books, for they will save many weary hours of hard work by supplying just the information needed, in concise, clear language, and thoroughly illustrated—information recognized of the utmost importance but hardly available anywhere else, certainly not in a form so complete and convenient.

Marshall---A Short Account of Explosives

Giving a Clear Conception of the Different Varieties of Explosives. By Arthur Marshall, A.C.G.I., F.I.C., F.C.S., British Ordnance Department Chemical Inspector; Author of EXPLOSIVES, THEIR HISTORY, MANUFACTURE, PROPERTIES AND TESTS, recently published in 2 Volumes.

This book has 29 illustrations and presents in clear and simple manner the main facts concerning explosives and their properties for the use of army and navy officers and the vast number of men and women everywhere dealing with or interested in explosives in the manufacture of munitions and other ways. Cloth, $1.50 postpaid.

Ford---Field Hygiene and Sanitation

Issued With the Approval of the Surgeon-General, U. S. Army

This book, by Joseph H. Ford, B.S., A.M., M.D., Colonel, Medical Corps, U. S. Army, covers one of the most important subjects with which newly commissioned officers must acquaint themselves, i.e., the care of troops. It is a very handy, practical manual, with round corners, that can be easily carried about in the pocket. It gives only those points that are of proven value employing many illustrations to give clear ideas of the sanitary apparatus used and to abbreviate the text. 152 illustrations, 255 pages. Cloth, $1.25 postpaid.

Bundy---War Nursing

By Elizabeth R. Bundy, M.D., Author of "Bundy's Anatomy and Physiology for Nurses." We know of no better book to place into the hands of those preparing to go abroad for active work as well as the hospital and army surgeon who necessarily directs the nurses; hospital orderlies and ambulance corps. The mss. of this book received unqualified approval of competent critics before its publication. Illustrated. Cloth, 75 cents postpaid.

REVISION OF THE BOOK TARIFF

SOME months ago we printed a letter from George Haven Putnam to the Secretary of the Treasury which, owing doubtless to the war pressure upon all Cabinet officials, has remained unanswered. Another explanation of the lack of reply might be that its arguments are unanswerable. In editorial comment we instanced a case in our own experience of the appraisement of copies of the "English Catalog of Books, 1911-15," retailing at five guineas, which we bought at 40% off at £3 3s., to retail here at the equivalent retail price of $25, but which the appraising official raised to valuation of £3 9s. 4d., involving additional duty and a serious penalty. On appeal, Judge Fischer upheld this re-appraisement, but on further appeal to the General Board of Appraisers our valuation at cost has since been upheld on the ground that the sale of a somewhat less number of copies to an American importer placing duty-free library orders, which was made the basis of the Special Agent's report, did not constitute the "usual wholesale price."

In another case similarly appealed, the decision by the General Board was not the same. This was the importation of the annual "English Catalog, 1916," retailing in London at 7s. 6d., on which we made the price of $2. The wholesale price to us for the 200 copies for which we placed an advance order was 4s., approximately 45% discount, the same rate as heretofore, except in years when we had ordered 250 copies, which quantity was sold to us at 50% discount. The examiner raised the price for 200 to 5s. 5d. The Special Agent of the Treasury in London found that the next largest sale of these books was to W. H. Smith & Son (the equivalent of the American News Company here), who had purchased 185 copies at 4s. 11d., which price was made the valuation on the first reappraisement. This probably represented the price for an advance order of 100 or 150 copies, with following smaller orders at the same rate. Tho this case seemed in close parallel with the other, the Board of General Appraisers supported the reappraisement below, so that the actual cost was raised to a valuation of 4s. 11d., and we were subjected, tho innocent importers, to a penalty of nearly 25%. This has involved a loss, and we have raised the price on the remaining copies to $2.25.

It had seemed to us in both cases that the valuation should be at the actual price to us, which represented no "dumping" concession but the fair market price for the portions of the editions indicated, under the usual conditions of the book-trade. The essential fact which differentiates book publication from most branches of manufacture is that the cost of typesetting and plates must be distributed over an uncertain number of copies, which can only be estimated. Therefore, there is not one wholesale price but several wholesale prices in the market of production, dependent upon the number of copies in the order in question. As the retail bookseller has overhead charges proved to be from 25% to 28%, the wholesaler or jobber or importer must have a discount substantially larger, to cover his own overhead charges and provide any factor of safety and margin of profit. The discounts of 40 to 50% are, therefore, not abnormal in cases where a substantial proportion of an English edition is sold to an American publisher and are not made with reference to export in contravention of the "dumping" clause, tho orders of such large proportions are not likely to be received from within the country of publication. The customs administration should recognize that there are different wholesale prices, made by way of discount on the retail price, which discounts increase successively with the size of the order. Advance orders are, of course, especially desirable and command a larger discount because they help to determine the marketable size of the edition on which non-duplicating costs may be distributed. This is particularly true on technical books of limited sale—like those above cited—in determining the retail price.

On books of very large sale and long editions, the original cost of typesetting and plates, on the contrary, becomes almost negligible, and is counted into the cost as machinery would be. This is especially the fact on joint publication, where American publishers join with English publishers in producing a work in large quantity, so that the original cost can thus be made nearly negligible. This accounts for what seem to be abnormally low prices on certain stock books, such series as the Macmillan Globe Poets or Dutton's Everyman's Library. In the case of joint publication, in fact, the price arranged between the English publisher and the American publisher is not a question of discount off a retail price, but of a reasonable profit to the English producer on his actual cost of production. Under this system both the English public and the American public get cheaper books than would be possible if it were not for joint publication.

There is another question on which the Treasury Department has ruled sensibly—but from which there is a tendency to revert—i. e., the levying of duty on the intangible value of authors' royalties as well as on the physical book. The publishing trade has always held that this intangible value is not subject to duty, and the Treasury Department has usually taken this view. As a rule, this royalty is contingent upon sales, and therefore doubly difficult of reckoning. But in some cases, the royalty has been charged on the books of the English house in full, sometimes subject to rebate in case sales are not made to the full extent, but sometimes as a closed item, as in the case of stock books of persistent sale, not likely to be returned. Of course this situation would be partly cleared by definite word from American publishers to English publishers not to charge the royalty in advance but to expect to collect royalties as sales are made. But it would seem more just and practicable that royalties should be definitely excluded from valuation for the simple reason that the tariff deals only with the tangible values of things, except in the case of single or few copies, where royalty payments have been merged in the selling value of the book.

The provision in the law that importers whose goods are raised in value by the examiner shall pay a penalty which may far exceed the importing cost and the real value of the goods, is a feature of the present law which should demand the attention of Congress even in the coming crowded war session, for it means great injustice to the innocent importer. Another provision of the act, to be sure, permits the importer to avoid this penalty by raising the valuation himself, provided that is done before appraisement. But under the law the English exporter is required to swear to actual cost and the importer can only conjecture what the examiner may do in appraising value. Thus there is really no way of avoiding a penalty which ought to be levied only where there is intent to defraud. The other questions should not require the attention of Congress unless the Treasury Department or its local representatives insist upon construing a law intended to reduce duties in such wise as actually to increase them. This is the real effect of the attitude of the appraisers at the port of New York, at which the great proportion of book importations enters. A ruling of the Secretary of the Treasury correcting the present trend of the appraisers at this port, to the effect that the actual price paid for books determines the market value in the country of publication where there is no suspicion of fraud or evasion and a reaffirmation of the principle that royalties are not to be included in valuation, would relieve Congress from the need of action which should otherwise be pressed upon it, and would also relieve the American publishing trade from a serious menace. But if appraisers are encouraged to rule as an interpretation of the phraseology of the law that the "actual market value or wholesale price" is the price for a dozen or a hundred copies sold to retailers or jobbers in England, a large part of the international business of book publishing and importing must cease, and an important trade of public value be to that extent annihilated, unless Congress shall intervene.

THERE is every indication that the bookseller will get an abundant share of the holiday business. Candy and jewelry will not be so popular in this our first war Christmas with the Government urging sugar conservation and with the very definite sentiment against spending money on needless trinkets. Books, on the other hand, have not only not increased materially in price but we are actually more of a reading nation to-day, it appears, than we were a year ago; it seems altogether probable that the nation-wide movement to supply books for soldiers has been an important influence this fall in bringing the need of books in war-time before the country. In view of these conditions, therefore, it seems advisable to repeat our earlier warning as the trade enters the first week of the holiday season that booksellers anticipate their wants whenever possible and order well in advance of the time they actually need stock. So congested are Eastern shipping conditions—due to Government embargoes and the rush of freight to a few Eastern ports—that auto express service has been inaugurated between New York and points as far away as New Haven. For the great bulk of the trade no such substitute means of communication is possible and dealers must rely on the choked freight and express service. Those who delay must not be surprised if shipments arrive after Christmas, nor expect publishers to take the late stock off their hands. For the publisher's part, especially if he has any department of his manufacturing done in another city, it is vitally important in view of labor and material shortages that he have "time to turn around in," and in view of increased costs that he not run too much risk of over-manufacturing in trying to carry more than his share of the speculative burden of last minute ordering.

THE book-trade should not fail to get the full significance of one clause in the regulations of the Treasury Department of the United States providing for the sale of the new War Savings certificates and stamps. It is short but pertinent: "no cut price sales will be permitted." This accords with precedent of course: the government maintains prices rigidly on postage stamps and the various other commodities it sells. But the query is still a puzzling one: why cannot the ordinary merchant and manufacturer follow the merchandizing policy which the government in its own dealings considers fair and politic?

THERE has been considerable speculation as to the effect of the recently passed Trading with the Enemy Act upon the relations of American publishers and enemy authors. The question has come to a focus on "The Journal of Submarine Commander von Forstner," publication of which, we understand, has been delayed for some time. The book has at last appeared, however, with the words: "Published under Trading with the Enemy Act Copyright License No. 1" surcharged on the jacket.

NET PRICES PROTECTED IN GREAT BRITAIN

NO LEGAL RESTRICTION ON COMBINATION OR PRICE-PROTECTION — HOW PRICE-PROTECTION HAS BECOME GENERAL AND WHY

ALTHO the Government of Great Britain has not, on the face of it, the same marks of insistent of-the-people-for-the-people-by-the-people liberty as that of the United States, there are places where we English have things more our own way, says Thomas Russell, the London Correspondent of Printers' Ink. For instance, with us any number of business concerns may amalgamate, and (if they can) stifle competition, no anti-trust law forbidding. And, similarly, any manufacturer can fix, if he wants to, the prices at which his goods shall be retailed. He can discriminate just as much as he likes in favor of dealers who will agree to handle his product exclusively, and can encourage exclusive handling by special rebates, no man saying him nay. All these things are done in Great Britain. The usual plan is to make conditions a part of the contract of sale, and in English law any sort of contract is a very sacred thing. Contracts in general restraint of trade, or for objects "contrary to public policy," cannot be enforced, but price-regulation has never been held to come under these headings.

Price-cutting originated in this country with the discovery that goods could be sold for cash instead of on credit if sufficient inducements were offered. Up to about 1870 everyone who could get credit took credit, and a good deal of it. Only the working classes habitually paid cash. When anyone else paid cash (in a strange store, for instance) he paid just as much money as if he had taken two years' credit.

Then one day some genius opened a store on Regent Street, close to Mudie's Library and put two prices on every ticket—the price for cash and the price for credit. Next, members of the Civil Service started co-operative trading. It is said to have started with a load of potatoes, but it soon produced the first similitude of the modern American department store. All the business was done for cash. People outside the Civil Service were accepted as customers if they paid an annual subscription—I think it was five dollars. And co-operative store prices soon opened people's eyes to what traders had been doing to them if they paid cash instead of taking credit.

To meet the serious competition of the co-operative stores, other retail merchants began to cut prices, and those who did not lost trade to them. The place where a cut price showed most emphatically was on an advertised proprietary. The non-cutters could say that the cheap man's unbranded goods were inferior in quality. But when a proprietary was cut there was no question about it. It really was a cut. So proprietaries became the leaders for a time, and the price of a sixpenny cake of Pears' Soap fell everywhere to threepencehalfpenny. The small merchants did not like this.

Advertisers retorted that the retailer had himself to thank if he sold at less than a living profit. So dealers started the substitution racket, or, rather, put it on an organized basis. They did not, at first, use this as a weapon, but for revenue purposes only.

In Britain the attitude of merchants towards advertised goods is not what it is in America. They have not been brought to see that it is worth less to sell an article for which the customer has come straight into the store, to ask for it, than one on which the retailer uses salesmanship. Neither do they see that heavy advertising compels quality, and that goods which they have bought to substitute for advertised commodities and get a big profit on are not really "just as good." They think they ought to get as much profit on the standard goods, which the advertiser sells for them, as on the rack-price goods which they have to persuade the customer to buy. That is their attitude now—quite unaltered by price-regulation—and that was their attitude then. So presently they got together.

Out of very small beginnings in the drug trade, next extended to groceries, a big movement was organized—the Proprietary Articles Association, known everywhere by its initials. The P. A. T. A. took subscriptions from retailers and admitted the proprietors of advertised goods to membership (also with subscription) subject to a minimum retail profit. It obtained the support of jobbers by providing for a minimum jobbing profit, too, and with the aid of jobbers cut off supplies from merchants who would not uphold the minimum retail prices fixed by the association for the respective articles protected. There was, and is, nothing illegal in this.

MODERN MERCHANDISING REGULATES PRICES

What advertisers expected to get for causing the prices of their goods to be raised against the consumer was a cessation of active hostility in the retail stores. They were not guaranteed a stoppage of substitution, and in 1896, when I sent a man round the country to observe substitution in detail, it was found that protected articles were just as much substituted as the others, for many large advertisers held out, and it was impossible to see that they were any the worse off. Some of them still hold out. Price-regulation is not universal, nor anything like it.

The P. A. T. A. could never have made price-protection as general as it is by mere belligerency. Good advertising would always have sold the goods. It still sells the old proprietaries which have not entered the ring. But the introduction of new articles could be made very expensive by retail opposition, and thus it happens that every advertised new product handled thru dealers in the last fifteen years has been protected. The example of success thus attained by new articles has often broken down the resistance of old proprietors, and the example of one concern coming in draws others in behind. When Scott's Emulsion went on the protected price list about 1902, Carter's Little Liver Pills followed almost immediately. In this country it is the right policy for a new introduction to protect prices and for an old-established product to let prices take care of themselves. When Scott's Emulsion went on the list the proprietor of the largest chain of drug stores told me that the demand—the actual demand—of the public for a substitute at the old Scott price forced him to put in a big plant to produce in a hurry sufficient supplies of a substitute which had sold languidly before.

Price-protection won't stop substitution, nor yet prevent it, but it will help a newcomer to a footing.

IS AMERICA TO BE THE MARKET FOR RARE BOOKS?

Mr. Sargent, writing recently in the Boston Transcript, makes out a pretty clear case that, in the words of the English Publishers' regulations—and that was their attitude then. quarian book market makes its way."

"The experience of the past auction season has proved that this country is the best book market in the world. In New York, Boston, and Philadelphia there is no 'knock-out' system to depress the prices of books, and collectors and dealers compete with one another without limitations or combinations."

Mr. Sargent points his moral by describing how sick the New York amateur must be who selected London instead of New York for selling 57 books bought at the Hoe sale for $10,104.50, which brought only $5,856.50 when sold at Sotheby's a year later, out of which the New York amateur had to pay freight, insurance, printing and commission. Mr. Sargent says:—

"There has been a tendency, ever since the dispersal of the great library of Robert Hoe, which occupied seventy-nine sessions in 1911 and 1912, to compare all subsequent sales with that unparalleled auction. Unparalleled because the total of the Hoe sale was the largest in the history of bookselling, and because at that sale the highest price ever paid for any book—$50,000—was given by Henry E. Huntington for the first book printed—the Gutenberg Bible on vellum. But the average of that sale has been surpassed during the season just closed and the American sale of Henry E. Huntington's duplicates with many books from the Christie-Miller collection, last season, was the most successful sale of Americana ever held in the world. There were only two sessions, but the total was $107,664.50, or an average per lot of $349. Both dealers and book-collectors generally have had the idea that the Hoe prices were higher than the same books would ever bring again.

"There has been no opportunity to test this question on a broad scale, except in the sale of the library of the late Charles F. Robinson, of Hartford, which was held at the Anderson Galleries in New York April last. Now and then books from the Hoe

"THE history of typography is a chapter in literature. So is the book trade. Leipzig, for instance, boasts a University, and its name is famous for the Battle of the Nations a century ago, but its place as the market of the book-world, and in the record of the vexed relations between publisher and author, has had no mean significance in Europe. The effect of Goschen, the publisher, on the destinies of Schiller is well known to English readers. Aptly has it been said by one of the most brilliant writers of our day, that the great publisher is a sort of Minister of Letters, and is not to be without the qualities of a statesman."—From John Morley's "Recollections."

sale have come into the market, but never until that sale in sufficient quantities to make a real test case. In the Robinson sales there were sixty-four books which Colonel Robinson purchased at the Hoe sale. For these sixty-four books he paid $11,724, and they were sold with his library for a total of $12,332. And it must be remembered that these books were resold at a time when many of the large book-dealers in the country were chary about tying up capital in property which might not be sold during the stress of war.

"There has been but one comparison between New York prices and those of the London market on the Hoe books, i.e., that above referred to, when the London price was little more than half the Hoe price.

"The past season, we are told, was notable for the large number of books which have not appeared in the auction-rooms for years, as well as for some of which only one copy, or at most a few copies are known. Further:

"It is evident, from the prices realized, that there is always a good demand for those volumes which are marked in the catalogs as 'excessively rare,' altho in some instances the catalog description is hardly warranted. Many books of which only one or two copies were known a generation ago are now no longer 'rare.' They may be 'scarce,' and there may not be enough copies to go around among the collectors, so that they still command high prices, but the high prices have been the means of bringing other copies to light. Of course, many of the scarcer books appear over and over again in the auction-room, so that while the number of copies in existence is small, the title figures oftener on the catalog at high prices than any one would naturally expect.

"The most appreciated books appear to be those which deal with the early history of America. As has been the case for a number of years, there is an increasing number of those who collect Americana, and our large libraries are more liberal buyers of books of this sort."

PERIODICAL PUBLISHERS ORGANIZE ADVISORY BOARD

A PUBLISHERS ADVISORY BOARD, representing the various periodical publishers' associations, has been formed in New York to promote matters of common interest. The members are as follows:

Periodical Publishers' Association, Allan H. Richardson, of the McCall Publishing Company, chairman; A. C. G. Hammesfahr, of Collier's, treasurer.

Associated Business Papers, Inc., M. C. Robbins, Iron Age.

Agricultural Publishers' Association, E. T. Meredith, Successful Farming.

Association of Religious Papers, George E. Cook, vice-president, David C. Cook Pub. Co.

Association of Medical Publishers, Dr. H. Edwin Lewis, American Medicine.

Authors League of America, Rex Beach.

Allied Printing Trades, Peter J. Brady.

The director of the Board is Charles Johnson Post, a journalist of considerable experience.

The first effort of the Board will be in the direction of securing the repeal of the zone postal measure recently passed by Congress.

I believe that a bonus system is the most effectual plan to continuously stimulate the efforts of salespeople. A bonus should always be based upon the increased sales of the whole business."—Hotchkin: "Manual of Successful Storekeeping."

AUTHORS PROTEST AGAINST ZONE POSTAL MEASURE

THE executive committee of the Authors' League has put forth a formal protest against the new zone system for second class mail matter.

"It appears to us," the statement of the committee says in part, "that the postal rider to the War Revenue Bill, passed at the last Congress as a war measure, as applicable to second-class matter, is not only iniquitous and unfair, but also that it was passed as a punitive measure leveled primarily at independent periodical publications.

"We believe that if it is carried out it will result in disaster to a very large number of periodicals, and inasmuch as the majority of American authors are dependent upon the American periodicals for their livelihood, anything which threatens them, also threatens the great body of American writers.

"This new law threatens the destruction of American literature and the home reading circle, with all that such a catastrophe would mean; this in itself should excite sufficient general interest to prompt an overwhelming demand for the repeal of the measure."

PERSONAL NOTES

THE J. B. LIPPINCOTT CO. has twelve stars in its service flag to date.

ROGER BURLINGAME, formerly head of the book advertising department of Charles Scribner's Sons, has been commissioned First Lieutenant after having been in training at the last Plattsburg camp.

JOHN PALMER GAVIT, for over four years managing editor of the New York Evening Post, will leave active serve on the Post on January 1 to become associated with Harper & Brothers. "Mr. Gavit," according to a statement by Mr. C. T. Brainard of Harper's, "has been invited to join the Harper organization as a director and to help our organization on the literary side, both as to the magazine and as to books."

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES

EX-AMBASSADOR GERARD'S recent book, "My Four Years in Germany" (Doran) is being translated into French, German, Danish, Swedish, Dutch, Italian, and Spanish.

SIR RIDER HAGGARD has presented to the City of Norwich, England, the manuscripts of his works and certain correspondence and objects connected therewith.

ALFRED A. KNOPF is inserting an attractively printed slip bearing the enclosed jingle in all his books as they go out: "If you should like this little book, commend it; but, for the love of Michael, do not lend it!"

"THE ARMY FIELD NOTEBOOK" compiled by Major H. R. Smalley is a loose-leaf notebook with waterproof leather covers containing metric scales, maps, field telegraph blanks and data and formulae useful in the field. It is published by the Military Publishing Co.

TWO WELL-KNOWN Boston religious papers, the Congregationalist and the Advance, have consolidated. The journal will henceforth be known by the combined names. The Congregationalist, said to be the oldest religious paper in the country, always has been published in Boston, and the Advance in Chicago.

A. N. MARQUIS & Co. will publish shortly the tenth biennial volume of "Who's Who in America." The initial volume in 1899 contained 827 pages and 8600 biographies; the last contained over 3000 pages, and the new edition will have more than 22,000 biographies.

AN INTERESTING FEATURE of the new editions of Joseph Conrad's novels soon to be published by Doubleday, Page & Co., is the series of prefaces which the author is writing himself. The first to appear will be "Lord Jim."

FROM ENGLAND we learn that H. G. Wells is to leave off thundering for a bit and give us as his next work one more "novel pure and simple." Arnold Bennett, too, is to revert to "earlier loves" and give us next "Self and Self-Management," reminiscent of his "How to Live on Twenty-four Hours a Day."

HUMAN NATURE as Rex Beach sees it is to be found in "Laughing Bill Hyde," a collection of short stories under the Harper imprint. Two of the stories have the Alaskan setting which the author knows from experience. Others are business or adventure tales and one shows a flash of Oriental realism.

BOYS WHO like actual adventure will find in "Famous Discoverers and Explorers of America" by Charles H. L. Johnston, the new volume in the Page Co.'s Famous Leader Series, an informal account of the exploits of such adventurers as Leif Ericson, Columbus, Sebastian Cabot, Balboa, De Soto, La Salle and others connected with the discovery of America.

HIS MANY FRIENDS in the trade will be glad to hear that Mr. Chas. L. Bowman is convalescing in San Diego where he writes the wonderful climate is doing him a lot of good. He still keeps in touch with book-trade affairs; in a recent letter he speaks of his delight at reading Paine's "Biography of Mark Twain" which he calls "all fascinating—an incomparable biography."

TELL ME when you were born, and I'll tell you, not only what you are, but what fate has in store for you, say the twelve little red books of the Where Were You Born Series (published by the Great Aim Society of Pittsburgh). As there is nothing so interesting as ourselves (to ourselves at least) the twelve little red books, one for every month in the year, will no doubt interest many.

"KULTUR IN CARTOONS," the grim brother of "Raemaekers' Cartoons," published last year, has just been issued by the Century Co. Like the preceding volume, it contains more than one hundred war cartoons printed in two colors. Each plate is faced with descriptive matter by G. K. Chesterton, Eden Phillpotts or some other distinguished writer or public man.

REV. S. B. ROHOLD'S "The War and the Jew," recorded as having been formerly published by the Macmillan Co. in the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY for Nov. 3, is published for the first time in this country by the Standard Publishing Co., who have obtained from the Macmillan Co. of Canada the sole rights to issue the book in the United States.

KATHARINE METCALF ROOF in her "The Life and Art of William Merritt Chase" traces the entire career of this intrinsically American painter from his early impulse to make pictures to the final achievement of the opportunity to study art first in Indianapolis and then in New York. The book, which is illustrated by many reproductions of the artists' work has just been published by Charles Scribner's Sons.

IF THE nursery vote were to be taken for the most popular author, it would be pretty safe to place one's bets on that venerable dame Mother Goose. Fanny Cory's clever pictures are also favorites, so the new edition of "The Fanny Cory Mother Goose" published by Bobbs-Merrill ought to meet with great favor in juvenile circles this holiday season. The new edition has a new picture in line on every page illustrating the text of the page in addition to the sixteen full-page drawings in color.

C. E. GOODSPEED & Co. of Boston announce for publication early in 1918 a new edition of Dunlap's "History of the Rise and Progress of the Arts of Design in the United States," edited by F. W. Bayley & C. E. Goodspeed, with about one hundred pages of new matter, including notes, and corrections of Dunlap's text, the result of twenty-five years' research in early American art. The new edition will be in three volumes, limited to 1000 sets and will contain about one hundred and fifty illustrations.

BOUTET DE MONVEL'S pale, unsmiling little French children with their sabots, blue checked pinafores, and white kerchiefs tied under their chins, so solemnly pursuing their work but more often their play, adorn two very charming translations from Anatole France published by Duffield—"Our Children" and "Girls and Boys." It is a question which is the drawing card, text or illustrations, but unquestionably together they produce two large slim quartos that will find a way into the hearts—if not the Christmas stockings—of many expectant children.

AT THE REQUEST of a number of patriotic societies the Atlantic Monthly Press, Inc., is reprinting in one book M. Cheradame's articles from the June, November and December Atlantic Monthly. How unscrupulously Germany planned world domination; How cheaply she has fought the war; How cleverly she has subserviated her Allies to a desperately-dependent condition and how we can crush Pan-Germanism is well told in these articles. An attractive, paper covered edition will be sold at 25 cents in order to put the book within the reach of every citizen.

THE USE of India paper makes it possible to put Dickens' longest novel—952 pages—in large type in a pocket-size volume only half an inch thick and weighing eight ounces. The

New Century Library (Thomas Nelson & Sons) in which this feat is accomplished includes the works of Hugo, Eliot, Dumas, Thackeray, Stevenson and other standard authors. The latest volume to appear is a particularly neat little volume of Emerson's "Essays." These attractive volumes, always suitable as gifts on account of their convenient size and good print, are particularly appropriate for soldiers and sailors.

Two BOOKS of interest to men in military service are announced by P. Blakiston Son's & Co.: "A Short Account of Explosives" by Arthur Marshall, describing briefly and clearly the main facts concerning explosives and their properties; and "Field Hygiene and Sanitation" by Joseph H. Ford, Colonel, Medical Corps, U.S.A., which gives points which have proved valuable in the care of troops. "War Nursing" by Elizabeth R. Bundy, member of the Medical Staff, Women's Hospital, Philadelphia, is a concise manual of nursing for nurses, hospital and army surgeons, hospital orderlies and members of the ambulance corps.

THOMAS BAILEY ALDRICH once expressed the opinion that James Ford Rhodes' "History of the United States" was as absorbing as a play. Others evidently had the same feeling for the author was frequently petitioned to re-write his seven volume work in one. Only recently, after becoming immersed in the study of the American Civil War which he had chosen as the subject of his Oxford lectures, did he comply with the request. "The History of the Civil War, 1861-1865," just published by the Macmillan Co., is not an abridgment of the earlier work but an entirely fresh study made with the help of new material.

THE APPELLATE DIVISION of the Supreme Court of New York has reversed the judgment of the Supreme Court, rendered in January, 1917, perpetually enjoining Albert Romeike & Co. from using its corporate name or the name "Romeike" as part of its name or in connection with advertising its press clipping business. The court has now ruled that no one has a monopoly in the patronymic "Romeike," and holds that no man can, by turning his business over to the corporation bearing his name, bar any one else of the same name from using his family name in his own business. "It is dishonesty in the use that is condemned, whether in a partnership or corporate name and not the use itself."

A RESOLUTION protesting against the change in rates on second-class postage was submitted to the convention of the American Federation of Labor in Buffalo by delegates representing photographers, pressmen, stereotypers, bookbinders, the Typographical Union, and the International Allied Printing Trades Association: "It is the opinion of this convention," the resolution read, "that Congress should not have altered the system of rates on second-class postage; that the system of taxes provided for are not a legitimate tax in that they are merely a detructive charge against a fundamental operation of a great and invaluable industry; that it will not raise revenue, but actually destroy business from which the Government seeks revenue."

A SKILFUL PAGE of advertising copy in story form appeared in the Dial of November 8 over the name of Boni & Liveright: "We were sitting in the smoking compartment of a Pullman, hitched to a broken down, coughy engine that was jerking its way along the uneven tracks that paralleled the St. Croix River," the story begins. "I had been up the Grand Lake Streams for a few weeks' loaf—fishing, smoking, reading, thinking. As the engine labored along, the bleak, stubby remains of fine spruce forests on one side of it and the turgid little river full of pulp wood on the other, I half closed my eyes and dreamily played a monstrous trout on a gossamer line. Just as I was about to land my catch, the chap sitting opposite me remarked in the same matter of fact tone in which he might have said Good Evening! 'How can they do it for sixty cents!'" From this opening paragraph to the end of the closely printed page the unsuspecting—or willing—public allows itself to read 16 inches of adroit, sugar coated recommendations of the Modern Library.

THE United States Department of Justice this week secured an agreement with the manufacturers of news print paper compelling the dissolution of the News Print Manufacturers' Association and the fixing by the Government of manufacturers' maximum prices. As a preliminary to the agreement four of the six manufacturers indicted for criminal violation of the Sherman law were fined $2500 each and a fifth $1000. According to the agreement, the maximum price of news print paper at the mills, bought in rolls in carload lots, is to be $3 a hundred pounds for the first three months of 1918, after which period a maximum price to be determined by the Federal Trade Commission is to prevail for the duration of the war and for three months thereafter, unless it is altered by the commission and the Federal Circuit Court. The maximum prices for paper bought in sheets and in less than carload lots are fixed tentatively, at from $3.25 to $3.75 a hundred pounds, and will be finally determined by the same procedure.

In the Publishers' Weekly for April 21 of the current year we noted at some length the noon "literary club" conducted by the employees of the Art in Buttons Co. of Rochester. Last year twenty-three talks were given by local librarians, professors and others. The club has resumed its meetings again this month and between now and May 1 will be addressed on alternate Monday noons on such subjects as The Rise of the Russian Novel, The New Note in Contemporary Literature, The Growing Popularity of Poetry, Civilian Relief after the War, Poland—Its History and Literature, Geology of Rochester and Vicinity, Our Boys in Training Camps, and Booker T. Washington and His Race. The purpose of the Club is "to get acquainted with good literature and to cultivate the imagination so as to better appreciate and share the good things of life." Regular membership fees are ten cents and sustaining memberships fifty cents. The money so raised pays for the speakers' luncheons and the residue goes for books to be kept permanently in the company's branch of the Rochester Public Library. The Rochester club is in many respects apparently a model factory reading nucleus and any booksellers interested in promoting similar groups in local plants would do well to get in touch with Miss Gertrude Engelhardt, its president. This year as last the club will welcome any publishers' publicity notes for use on the factory bulletin boards and elsewhere.

The English Bookseller contributes this to the outcry against prices: "For all the talk of a coming revolution in book prices, the six-shilling novel, like other established institutions in this country, evidently takes a lot of killing. So far, you will observe, most of the new fiction continues to be issued in this form, and any serious and combined attempt at its supersession is still in the future—tho it may be a nearer future than seems at the moment probable. But there is already a certain amount of prospecting and pioneering work being done, among which one notes the production, by the firm of Duckworth, of a new half-crown novel from the hand of no less prominent a favorite than Mrs. W. K. Clifford. Will half-a-crown, one wonders, ever become the regulation price for new fiction by writers of repute? And what about those paper-covered new novels, at (presumably) a still lower price, which some of the prophets have been bidding us prepare to welcome in battalions?"

EXPERIENCE COUNTS

We have spent a great many years making books and nothing else. During that time we might also have undertaken catalogue and other miscellaneous printing, but we believe that this is the day of the specialist.

One result is that our customers receive the benefit of a low productive cost which results from these years of experience, and from the most extensive facilities in every department.

Reference List of New Publications

Recorded in NOVEMBER, 1917

This Reference List includes and classifies all books entered in the annotated Weekly Record during the past month, together with additional titles not therein listed, covering law and medicine, many government documents, university publications, pamphlets, and books of limited character. All works are here entered under (1) author, in Clarendon type, anonymous books having Clarendon type for the first word; (2) title in Roman; (3) subject-heading in CAPS and SMALL CAPS; (4) name of series in Italics. Under subject entries asterisks () designate books previously entered in the Weekly Record, in most cases with descriptive annotation.*

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederick; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

For books received sizes are given in caps, Q, O, D, etc.; for books not received sizes are given in Roman numerals, 4°, 8°, 12°, etc. Prices are added except when not supplied by publisher or obtainable only on specific request. Where not specified the binding is cloth.

Those desiring to learn the entire publishing output of the month in any one field should look under one of the following MAIN HEADINGS:

PHILOSOPHY	MEDICINE	LITERATURE
RELIGION AND THEOLOGY	AGRICULTURE	POETRY
SOCIOLOGY	HOUSEHOLD ECONOMICS	DRAMA
LAW	BUSINESS	FICTION
EDUCATION	ENGINEERING, TECHNOLOGY	BIOGRAPHY
PHILOLOGY	FINE ARTS	GEOGRAPHY AND TRAVEL
SCIENCE	GAMES, SPORTS, AMUSEMENTS	HISTORY

Besides the titles listed under each of these headings cross reference is made from each to a limited number of cognate headings which collectively give all the new publications of the month in the given subject or group of subjects.

Inquirers looking for books on a specific topic should look under the general subject to which that topic belongs, i. e., GEOLOGY rather than SILURIAN PERIOD; MATHEMATICS rather than CALCULUS; ECONOMICS rather than WAGES. Books regarding specific Religious denominations, countries and persons, however, should still be sought for under their individual names.
